

Report on the Fundraiser to Support Baby Animals in Shelters

2 235
raised

We raised the necessary funds thanks to contributions from over 450 donors.

81
animals helped

We purchased formula, medication, wet and dry food for kittens, puppies, baby squirrels, and even two lion cubs.

3
shelters supported

We provided assistance to young animals in three shelters:

- Wild Animals Rescue Center
- Hostomel Shelter
- Get a Friend Shelter

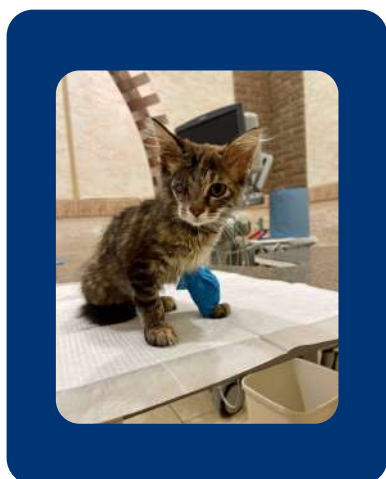

Without maternal care, baby animals are completely defenseless. They are highly vulnerable to disease and struggle to fend off infections. The risk of infection is high in shelters; sometimes, one sick animal can set off a chain reaction.

For babies, every hour counts when it comes to survival, so having essential supplies on hand is critical. We want to give them a better chance at long, healthy lives. That's why, with the funds raised, we purchased and delivered:

- * Medication, dry and wet food, and shampoo to the Get a Friend shelter for 17 kittens and 14 puppies, totaling $745.48.
- * Dry and wet food and syringes to the Hostomel Animal Shelter for 50 kittens, totaling $740.29.
- * Transferred $745.37 to the Wild Animals Rescue International Charitable Foundation to buy food for young animals.

In total, we spent $2 235.14
to support these animals

Here are some of the little ones we were able to help:

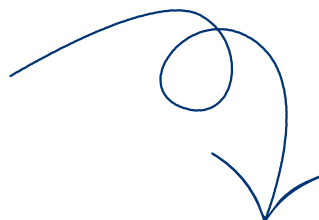

Luis was taken from an owner who could no longer care for the kitten. Unfortunately, Luis lost an eye. She's now safe in the Get a Friend shelter, where she will receive good care.

Here are some of the little ones we were able to help:

These kittens were found barely alive in a box in the forest. They are being nursed and treated at the Get a Friend shelter.

These puppies were discovered near a school bathroom. They are also in the Get a Friend shelter, where they have to be bottle-fed because they are so young.

This mama cat was evacuated to the Hostomel Shelter from a frontline area. She gave birth to kittens there.

These babies, also from the Hostomel shelter, received help thanks to your donations. We couldn't resist sharing their adorable photos!

This baby squirrel was rescued and given refuge at the Wild Animals Rescue Center.

Lion cubs Mira and Zorya from the Kharkiv region were about three months old when they arrived at the Wild Animals Rescue Center.

We provided funds for a special feeding formula for the cubs since the shelter's director had been feeding them by hand.

Thank you for your support and donations! Your generosity allows us to give a chance at life to animals who would otherwise perish without human help. We may not know how many baby animals die on the streets, left alone to face the cold, hunger, and disease.

We do know that your donations helped save 81 little but so very precious lives!
